

BRITISH BLOCK OSTEND HARBOR; FRENCH GAIN

ANOTHER DARING RAID ON U-BOAT BASE A SUCCESS

Cruiser Vindictive Sunk in Inner Channel Says Admiralty Report

HUNS CLAIM IT FAILED

Even If Ship Lies At Angle, Be- lieved Tides Will Eventually Fall Harbor With Silt

POULS ADVANCE AT GRIVESNES

Take Part of Town Held For Last Three Weeks By Teutons— Other Local Engagements

German submarine operations from the harbor of Ostend, Belgium, have been seriously hampered for a time if not rendered impossible by a daring raid made on the harbor by the British Friday morning.

An official statement issued by the British admiralty says that channel leading out of the inner harbor has been completely blocked by the bulk of the old cruiser Vindictive, which was maneuvered into position under heavy fire and then sunk by bombs. It appears, however, that there is doubt that the entire channel is blocked, one report saying that the vessel lies at an angle and does not absolutely interrupt the use of the fairway.

Germans Deny Success.

The German official statement concerning the raid, says the attempt was a failure and that the bulk of the old cruiser lies outside of the navigation channel. This report may be compared to the one issued on April 24, the day following the raid on Zeebrugge, which claimed that no damage was done to the mole or harbor there. Subsequent events have proved that the damage done by the raid on April 23 was of a serious nature.

U-Boats May Seek Home Ports.

If Ostend and Zeebrugge are removed as ports from which the German U-boats may be operated, the Germans apparently will be compelled to withdraw their submarines to their home ports. In this connection it is interesting to note that a week ago it was announced that the greatest mine fields known to naval operations have been planted in the North sea to combat submarines. It was officially stated that the area of this mine field would be 121,782 square miles, and that it would be completed by May 15. Some months ago Admiral Jellicoe of the British navy announced that the submarine menace would be met by August 1 and it is possible that he had the blocking of the harbors of Zeebrugge and Ostend and the laying of an immense mine field in mind when he made this statement.

French Advance at Grivesnes.

While the naval arm of the Entente has been busy on the Belgian coast, the military forces were engaged in local fighting on the Ypres and Somme sectors. The French made a notable advance at Grivesnes, where they took the part of the town which had been in German hands for three weeks. Along the front to the north there were scattering engagements, notably at Aveluy wood, north of Albert, where the contending armies are striving for strategic ground. There were also small operations in the Kemmel hill front, southwest of Ypres.

There have been the usual local engagements between patrols on the Italian and Macedonian fronts, but nothing approaching a general engagement has been fought.

Pope Benedict has set aside June 15 as a day to be observed in the Catholic churches of the world as a day for prayers that peace may be restored to the world.

JACKSON CALLED FOR DRAFT.

Chicago, Ill., May 10.—Joe Jackson, the slugging outfielder with the Chicago American, was today ordered by his exemption board in Greenville, N. C., to appear before the draft board and be examined for military service. President Comiskey of the Chicago club was advised that Jackson had been tentatively placed in the list of the new draft men to be called between May 25 and June 1.

HOLD BOY ON ESPIONAGE CHARGE

Charged by Federal Authorities With Cutting Canvas Used for Making Gas Masks for Our Army.

New York, May 10.—John Ulrich, 17 years old, who was arrested in Poughkeepsie Tuesday for an alleged attempt to destroy waterproof canvas intended for bags for gas masks will be brought here tomorrow for examination by the federal authorities. He was charged here today with violation of the recently enacted sabotage act.

Ulrich is said by the government agents to have admitted in a signed confession that he cut knife holes in two rolls of canvas in the factory where he was employed but claimed that he did it in a "spirit of deviltry" and to illustrate what he would do to the Kaiser.

His father was born in Germany but he has a brother in the American army according to the government officials.

DECLARES BOCHE STILL HAS RESERVES IN REAR

Radcliffe Representative Says German Big Push Will Start Again on Somme

London, England, May 10.—"The bulk of the German reserves is still in the rear of the Somme front and it must be assumed the enemy's big main effort will be in that direction," said a representative of General Delma Radcliffe, chief director of military operations, at the war office in summing up the week's war developments today. "It is equally certain that he will not discontinue his attempts in Flanders."

In considering the course of these battles it must always be remembered that the capture of any position is not the important factor. It is rather a question of staying power. We must look to the end of the battle.

"While the German gain in Flanders is important owing to the narrowness of our front, we must not judge by the loss of one position or another. The end of the battle will come when one side exhausts its resources or reaches the end of its resources before the other. The Germans have put in a considerable number of fresh divisions both in Flanders and on the Somme front during the past week and this is satisfactory to us for it shows that we are getting through their fresh divisions very fast. The enemy's proximity to the heights in Flanders makes it likely that he will continue his attacks there despite the lack of success of his attacks during the past week."

In the period between March 21, when the German offensive was begun, and April 25, the losses of the French were only one-fourth to one-fifth those of the British, the representative said. Since April 25, he added there has been no reason to believe that the losses of the French have been any heavier than those of the British. (The British losses since March 21 were estimated on May 4 by the British military mission at Washington at nearly 250,000.)

This information was given out in refutation of German propaganda assertions that the French have been bearing the brunt of the battle.

CASUALTY LIST HAS 90 NAMES RECORDED

Two Lists Issued Yesterday, First Naming 21 Casualties, Second, in Evening, 69

Washington, D. C., May 10.—The casualty list today contained 21 names, divided as follows: Killed in action, four; died of wounds, one; died of accident, one; died of disease, three; wounded severely, three; wounded slightly, seven; missing in action, one; lost at sea, one.

The second casualty list issued to-night by the war department contained 69 names divided as follows: Killed in action, 4; died of wounds, 1; died of accident, 1; died of disease, 9; died of drowning, 1; wounded severely, 20; wounded slightly, 23; prisoners, 3. Died of disease, Private Harry Arthur Littlefield, Petersburg, N. Y.; prisoners (previously reported missing) Lieutenants J. S. Abbott, St. Paul, Minn., R. H. Jeffery, Uniontown, Pa., Abraham Strauss, New York; wounded severely, Private William E. Murray, New York; slightly wounded, Private Paul W. Bradley, Short Hills, N. J.

JOHNIE ERTLE KNOCKED OUT.

Milwaukee, Wis., May 10.—Dick Loadman, bantam weight boxer of Lockport, N. Y., tonight knocked out Johnnie Ertle, St. Paul, in the third round of a ten round bout. In the first round Loadman had the advantage, landing a terrific right to the stomach. In the third he again drove a stiff right to the body and followed it up with a blow to the jaw. Ertle was rendered unconscious and had to be carried to his corner. He came to several minutes later.

CHARGE BORGLUM NEGOTIATED WITH AIRPLANE PLANT

Papers Introduced in Aircraft Probe Are Most Sensational

USED POST FOR PROFIT

Chief Critic of Airplane Program Declared to Have Wrongfully Used Wilson's Trust

SCULPTOR CALLS IT "FRAME-UP"

Employee of British War Mission Also Involved in Documents of U. S. War Department

Washington, D. C., May 10.—Sensational sworn statements, letters and telegrams from the files of the army intelligence service were read into the senate record today to show that Gutzon Borglum, while holding a personal commission from President Wilson to inquire into the government's aviation program, was negotiating secretly for the formation of a private airplane company to take war contracts and capitalize his friendship with the President.

The sculptor, who has been the chief critic of aircraft production of officials, is represented as seeking for himself a position as silent partner in the proposed new corporation. His sole asset in the transaction to his personal friendship with President Wilson, whom he stated he could do anything with.

With Borglum was associated in the documents, Hugo C. Gibson, an employee of the British ministry of munitions of war in the United States, located in New York, who was to share in the deal.

Thomas Introduces Documents.

A formal statement by Kenyon W. Mix, of the "Dodge Manufacturing company of Indiana, setting forth a detailed account of his negotiations with the two men, is among the papers put into the congressional record. They were presented by Senator Thomas of Colorado, a member of the senate military committee, who has been particularly active in connection with the aircraft agitation. The Mix statement shows that government officials, including Vice President Marshall and Howard E. Coffin, former head of the aircraft board, have had most of the information disclosed today since last January. There is no indication, however, that it reached President Wilson himself at that time or that the President knew of its existence until several weeks ago, when he called a half upon the sculptor's investigations in his name.

All of the documents submitted by Senator Thomas as well as much other data from the war department have been placed in the hands of Assistant Attorney General Frierson, who has just started the inquiry ordered by the president in charges of graft, disloyalty and incompetence in the government air craft production. These charges referred to first in capitol cloak-room gossip and finally on the floor of the senate, have been attributed largely to assertions of Borglum.

Hint of German Influence.

"With the Mix statement there was filed today a copy of a formal statement, accusing Borglum made to the military intelligence section of the army general staff late in January, by Henry Harrison Supple, Mix's consulting engineer and who participated in many of the conferences on the subject of the proposed corporation which Borglum and Gibson described by his chief. The latter says he became suspicious when he visited Borglum in Washington during January and was shown President Wilson's letter authorizing the investigation by the sculptor and decided then to report the whole matter to government authorities.

There are intimations that a great deal of information bearing on Borglum's activities and motives have been assembled by the army intelligence service. There is an unconfirmed report in official circles that evidence of German influences in some form will be brought to light when the full story is revealed.

"Frame-up" Says Borglum.

New York, May 10.—In a statement issued here late tonight, Gutzon Borglum characterized as "a scurrilous frame-up" the charges made against him in Washington today in relation to his connection with the investigation of airplane production in the United States.

"This scurrilous frame-up, which I charge it to be, has been in the hands of the government for months," he said, "and it is now sprung upon me. I am finally become aware that I am being persecuted until the airplane failure, honestly and fairly investigated. The charges of Mix, a confessed tool of deeds, and Mix's engineer are lies, unreservedly, both in inference and

United Effort in War Chest Campaign

Great interest is being manifested in the campaign which will be conducted in this city during the week of May 20 to provide a permanent war chest for the support of several war philanthropies that appeal for aid in Oneonta. The plans of those in charge presage a most thorough canvass of the city and the extension of every opportunity for the widest co-operation on the part of its citizens and the expressions of commendation and support that are heard indicate that in this, as in the other public enterprises in aid of successful prosecution of the war, there will be united effort to achieve the greatest measure of success. Everyone realizes the important work which is being conducted by each of these philanthropies; how indispensable it is in this hour of supreme endeavor; what it will ultimately contribute to the success of America in arms; which means the triumph of the ideals of democracy and of a free people—the crushing of the serpent of autocracy, which has horrified civilization by its bellicose work of the past four years. These philanthropies are indispensable in meeting the conditions of war and must be supported. The people have been most generous in the past in their response to the appeals made to them and there is every confidence that they will respond with the same noble spirit in the campaign that is about to begin.

statement, as applied to me in anything I ever did, directly or indirectly that was improper in my capacity as a representative of the President.

"On the contrary, Mix sought my assistance to help him find men of aeronautic ability and other aid that would enable him to produce or reproduce a small plane he had in mind. There is absolutely no truth in the charges."

"BLUE DEVILS" VISIT WILL HEARTEN FRANCE

Tardieu Tells Compatriots to Carry Back to Their People What They Have Seen Here

New York, May 10.—To the famous "Blue Devils" who came here from France to campaign for the Third Liberty Loan and to inspect America's army in the making, Andre Tardieu, French high commissioner to the United States and once himself a captain among these veterans of the Marne, Ypres, Noyon and other western battle fields, tonight gave a message:

"When you are back in France," he said, addressing his compatriots at a banquet of the general association of Alsace-Lorrainers in this country, "tell our comrades what you have seen here. Their faith in the holy victory of liberty and right will thereby grow stronger."

The "Blue Devils" the Commissioner addressed in French, delivering the rest of his address in English. In his welcome to the soldiers he said they "had met and known the heart of America," when they heard the cheers and applause which followed them everywhere they visited.

"During the trip you are now to undertake," he told them after paying a tribute to Pershing's returned veterans, "during your visits in the camps you will be able to size up the efforts of America. There will be soon over a million of them with us, the whole American nation is now standing like one man, ready for the war."

QUESTION SANITY OF EX-EDITOR OF BULL

Action Follows Scene in Court Room Where Bedford Said He Was Victim of Conspiracy

New York, May 10.—Luther S. Bedford, formerly editor of the magazine, Bull, who with Jeremiah O'Leary and Adolph Stern, is under indictment for violation of the espionage law for publishing alleged seditious anti-conscription matter was today committed to Bellevue hospital for ten days observation in order that his mental condition might be determined.

The commitment was requested by assistant county and federal district attorneys who have charge of the prosecution of the three men and of the Bull publication company and of the American Truth society, which were jointly indicted.

Bedford created a scene in the federal court when he was arraigned Wednesday, declaring that Assistant United States District Attorney Barnes was "crucifying him," because he advocated free speech. At the close of a harangue he wildly threw up his arms, shouting that he was the victim of a governmental conspiracy.

ASSERTS AERO CHARGES ARE TO CHOKE INQUIRY

Gibson, Associated With Borglum, Says They Are Put Forth By Those Probe Would Hurt

New York, May 10.—Hugo C. Gibson, who is an assistant here in the munitions purchasing department of the British military mission, issued a statement late today defending himself and Gutzon Borglum in connection with the disclosures made in Washington of Borglum's alleged activities in aircraft schemes. "Mr. Borglum washed his hands of all connection with negotiations looking to our organization of an airplane manufacturing enterprise as soon as President Wilson granted him authority to investigate the handling of aircraft production," said Mr. Gibson in making public his statement, which was typewritten. He added that had the corporation that was discussed ever reached the point of actual organization he intended to be a stockholder and declared that "in the end, I think a good financial reason would be found for these charges being made. I believe there may be ample reason for certain persons to consider it desirable to head off or choke the inquiry which Mr. Borglum started."

Gibson explaining further that in 1911 and 1912 he was engaged in the manufacture of airplane propellers in this city and that a mutual friend introduced him to Borglum, who was interested in airplanes and propeller designing.

He declared Borglum would have been valuable in the proposed enterprise only because of his ideas on propeller designing. The statement prepared after he had listened to questions follows:

"Mr. Borglum, in December, intended to engage in a commercial enterprise in which I should have been interested. After he had received authority from President Wilson to investigate the aircraft situation he withdrew entirely from any of the tentative arrangements being made for that commercial enterprise, giving as his reason to me that he considered bad activity as entirely incompatible with the position he then found himself in. Since he made that statement to me he has not even discussed the proposed commercial undertaking and in fact has consistently avoided any discussion when I have touched upon the subject in conversation.

"I do not understand the object of the statement purporting to come from Henry Harrison Supple. I met him on not more than one or two occasions and had neither authority nor opportunity nor did I say I could or might influence orders for airplanes. In reply to a question: I have some patents which would have been one of the bases of that commercial enterprise. In reply to a question as to the Mix affidavits: Mr. Borglum had no confidential connections with the government that I know of at that time.

"In reply to a question as to why Mr. Borglum was valuable in connection with the commercial enterprise: Mr. Borglum was interested in a propeller design of his own, or a suggestion of such, and discussed it with me because I knew something about propellers. In reply to a question: 'Did Mr. Borglum come to you?' He did not come to me, I did not go to him. A mutual acquaintance introduced us. Our commercial relations ceased when he told me that he had the letter from President Wilson."

NIP PRISONERS' PLOT TO ESCAPE

Thirteen Soldiers and Civilians in Stockade at Croton Lake Planned to Overpower Small Guard.

Croton Lake, May 10.—A daring plan of 13 soldiers and civilian prisoners to overpower the small guard and escape from the stockade of a New York guard regiment, patrolling the Catskill aqueduct, was frustrated early today when details of the plot were given to an officer by one of the prisoners. This man said the escape had been planned to take place at 1 o'clock this morning. The prisoners he said were to arm themselves with pokers, rocks and clubs and overpower the guards, seize arms and ammunition, hold up a passing automobile, make their way into New York and there scatter.

The ringleaders were taken to regimental headquarters and questioned. It is said they confessed. One of the prisoners is an enemy alien. He was recently arrested when found acting in a suspicious manner near the aqueduct.

U-BOAT LOSSES IN APRIL TAKE SLUMP

French Statistics Show Effects of Submarine Warfare Were Half of April, 1917

Washington, D. C., May 10.—Official French statistics on the submarine warfare, received here in a dispatch from France today, showed that the total losses to Allied and neutral ships, including accidents at sea, were approximately only one-half as great during April this year as in April, 1917.

In April last year 624,685 gross tons were lost, while this April's figures are 331,631. Submarine attacks now are more costly for the enemy, the dispatch points out, owing to the fact that the attacks are chiefly made with torpedoes instead of gun fire, as was the case before merchant ships were adequately and efficiently armed. Attention also is called to the fact that each time the Germans have made an offensive on land they made a corresponding effort with their submarines. Thus during the second half of March the number and activities of submarines increased. The first half of April marked a very distinct lessening, attributed to the counter efforts of the Allies.

ROADS CANNOT SECURE RELEASE OF LIABILITY

Court Rules Employee May Not Sign Away Negligence Liability of Employer

New York, May 10.—A decision that "it is against public policy for an employing railroad company to contract with an employee to relieve itself from liability for negligence, imposed by law," was handed down against the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad today by the appellate division of the state supreme court. Oscar Fried, who had both arms burned off when electricity passed through his body while he was working on a telegraph pole in the railroad's Mount Vernon yards in 1913, was awarded a verdict of $55,000.

William T. Jerome of counsel for the New Haven, introduced a paper signed by Fried, releasing the company from liability for accident or injury to himself. Holding that a carrier cannot have employees assume risk so that the carrier may defeat the purpose of the federal employers' liability act, Justice Blackmar pointed out also that Fried's signature was obtained long after he became an employee.

FRENCH KIDDIES' ORPHAN FUND

260,000 Youngsters Start Subscriptions in Gratitude for What America Has Done for Them.

Paris, France, May 10.—Two hundred and sixty thousand French school children contributed their sons to a subscription started by the pupils of a school in the Darcy section of Paris to provide for the first American orphan of the war. The first original purpose was to raise 550 francs by sons, not because the money was needed, but simply as a symbol of French gratitude for American aid to French orphans. The movement promptly went beyond the original plan. Other schools joined in, and more than 15,000 francs was raised before the subscription closed.

BAD STORM AT GLENS FALLS.

Gleens Falls, May 10.—Mrs. Charles Ducloux of South Gleens Falls is suffering greatly from shock, after having been blinded for an hour as a result of lightning, which struck and badly damaged her home today, in one of the worst electrical and wind storms this vicinity has ever known. Roofs were torn from houses, trees were felled and trolley companies and telephone and electric light companies were badly damaged.

HUNS REFUSE TO ADMIT SUCCESS

Teutons Declare Blockade Attempt Complete Failure With Loss of Many Men

London, England, May 10.—The British navy has completed its operations for the bottling up of the German submarine mouths on the Belgian coast, by the sinking of the scarred old cruiser Vindictive, stuffed with concrete, at the entrance to Ostend harbor.

The feat, accomplished in the early hours of Friday, was the second exploit of the Vindictive with the object of closing the submarine bases and if appears to have been highly successful. The Vindictive went in under a heavy fire from the German batteries and her crew escaped, leaving only a few dead men on board motor boats, which transferred them to torpedo boat destroyers.

The Vindictive's dash was covered by a bombardment from several cruisers.

The German official account of the affair seems to have been written to save the face of the Teutons. It says that several cruisers attempted to enter the harbor and were driven off, but that one, an old one stranded.

Naval men here believe that the plans, which were worked out by Admiral Kears and approved by Admiral Jellicoe, when he was first sea lord were wholly successful.

Cruiser Run in Close to Pier.

The Vindictive came under a fierce fire from the German shore batteries. She was navigated close into the pier in fine style and sunk by an internal charge. The crew escaped in fast motor boats. Only the number of officers and men absolutely necessary were on board the ship on account of the danger of her total loss. These and the operating crew swarmed up from the engine room and took their stations so as to slide into the motor boats. The small boats were under heavy fire all the time that they were transferring the men.

Huns Call Attempt a Failure.

Berlin, Germany, via London, England, May 10.—The British attempt to blockade the harbor of Ostend was a failure according to an official statement issued today. An old cruiser, entirely battered to pieces, lies aground before the harbor outside the navigation channel and the entrance to the harbor is quite free, the statement continues.

The text reads:

"At three o'clock Friday morning British naval forces after a violent bombardment again made a blockading attack on Ostend. Several enemy ships under the protection of artificial fog tried to force their way into the harbor, but were driven off by the excellently directed fire of our coastal batteries."

"An old cruiser lies aground before the harbor outside the navigation channel. The entrance to the harbor is quite free."

"Many dead men were found on board the stranded vessel. Two survivors of the crew had leaped overboard and were captured, according to information so far received."

"At least two enemy motor boats were shot away and one motor boat was damaged. The blockading attempt was completely foiled. Once again the enemy has sacrificed human lives and equipment in vain."

The New York Markets.

New York, May 10.—Passing of the British cabinet crisis heartening military and naval news from abroad and constructive home developments furnished the basis of another sweeping advance in stocks today, although gains were materially reduced at the close.

The movement was the most comprehensive of any thus far this year, but the bulk of the enormous dealings again converged around half a score of favorites, chiefly war issues and affiliated equipments.

A marked increase of public participation was observed, commission houses being reported as easy buyers, especially of industrials, for speculative and investment interests the middle west and southwest.

Heatiness of the Liberty 4½ percent bond, which were formally listed on the exchange, was almost the only adverse feature. That issue opened at 99 10 and receded steadily to 98 4 on extensive offerings which were attributed to interior financial institutions.

United States steel again completely overtopped all other stocks in point of activity, contributing about 425,000 to the day's total of 1,225,000 shares. Steel surpassed its previous maximum of the year by 2 5-8 at 100 7-8, but closed at 100 1-4, net gain of one point.

Other strong and active stocks included Sumatra Tobacco at a gross gain of six points, American Sugar 5, Baldwin Locomotive 3 3-8, Distillers 2 3-8, Tobacco products 2½ and Union Pacific 2 3-8. Coalers, Reading excepted, augmented recent gains, but copper and shippings were irregular.

Liberty 5½s and 4s lacked definite trend, and the general bond list showed little alteration.

United States bonds (old issues) were unchanged on call.

LOCALLY OF INTEREST

The War Chest in Oneonta.

The war chest movement in Oneonta is being discussed with much interest and meets with general approval, and in particular citizens are pleased with the plan of distribution of funds which has been adopted. Fifteen men of good standing and of judgment in the community have been named as directors, and to them all applications for funds from the war chest will be referred. All applications for funds will be discussed in open meeting, and a special committee will consider each request. Each of these will be balanced with other claims upon the chest and final action will be taken only after two weeks' deliberation and careful consideration. No appropriations will be made except to organizations of recognized standing and to none for which without a war chest systematic canvass of the city would probably not be made. From this statement it will be acknowledged that the purpose of the chest is an admirable one, and that under the plan as now formulated the money contributed for war purposes in Oneonta will be much more judiciously and expeditiously handled than would be in the case if there was separate solicitation.

Doing Our Share.

Amidst the men of Oneonta who have gone to the front, and from the limited number of women who have worked day and night at the Red Cross, it can hardly be said that any of the citizens of Oneonta have as yet really sacrificed. They have purchased bonds to a really liberal amount, but this is merely a public duty, which none can disregard; it is also a good business investment, from which any one at any time can receive his money back any way of sale, and which will be increasingly valuable as time goes on. They, or more properly we, have contributed from time to time to the various charities for which there has been appeal; and we have quite generally obeyed the injunctions of the government as to conservation of food. None of these things, however, have touched us deeply. They have not caused us to give up many of the enjoyments of life, and until we do save and sacrifice to such an extent that it hurts, we can hardly say that we have done anything.

With the opening of the war chest drive the opportunity comes to do something more and something more regularly than we have previously done for the numerous good causes which are linked up with the war. Even this will not be a great burden upon any, if the people of the city, one and all, do their share. The sum asked will be based on incomes and will not be burdensome for any single individual.

There is just one thing for us to do. That is to get under the movement and boost.

Enrollment for Women

The attention of the women voters of Oneonta is called to the fact that May 25 will be a day of enrollment for them for the primary election to be held in September. On that day every woman who expects to take part in the selection of candidates for the several parties will, which they wish to affiliate, must go to the designated polling places in their district and there register their party preference.

It is hoped that every woman in the city will enroll for the primary. The selection of candidates is just as important as the election of officers. It is a duty which along with the ballot has devolved upon the woman. Neither man nor woman who fails to enroll or later to vote at the primaries, is doing a full political duty.

In reply to inquiries, should be stated that enrollment with any party merely expresses a political preference, but that it does not in any way bind the registrant to vote for the candidate afterwards named if that candidate is unsatisfactory. It does, however, afford an opportunity which otherwise could not be had to aid in selecting the best man or woman for office.

Plant Potatoes

Though the price of potatoes during the past winter did not reach the high level of the almost famine prices of 1917, it is hoped and confidently believed that there will be no diminution of the acreage the present season. The price has at least been profitable and there is likelihood that it will fall lower during the year to come. On the other hand, what with the restriction in the use of cereals which no doubt will be strict, there will be more potatoes eaten, and more of them will be used for starch and for other domestic purposes than heretofore. The potato, therefore, appears to be a safe crop for everybody to raise.

This is from the standpoint of profit only. The higher view is that they should be raised for the good of the world. We cannot send sufficient cereals abroad to feed our Allies and

COMMENTS OF THE PRESS

Nations Enslaved.

The full text of the German treaty of peace with Roumania having been published, it is to be noted that it is thoroughly consistent with the purposes of advocacy as originally expressed against Serbia nearly four years ago. That little kingdom was given no chance for life. Roumania by a treaty imposed by force is practically deprived of life.

As in the case of Russia, the conqueror helps himself to provinces and principalities. He decrees that his army of occupation shall be supported by the vanquished. He compels the subject kingdom to reduce and limit its own military establishment. He deprives it of the control of its own rivers and harbors. He will impose upon it later trade relations which will be onerous to the last degree.

This is the slavery of a nation. Just as the Bolshevik treaty placed the Baltic Provinces in bondage and the treaty with the zealous of Ukraine left that fertile section of Russia in helpless subjection. Nothing out of an autocratic triumph on a larger scale is needed to bring upon the great democracies of the world the same humiliation.—[New York World.]

Walking on Wealth.

Butte citizens have been walking on money and have not realized it until recently. The Montana city paved its streets with manganese rock, which was plentiful and considered worthless. Now the demand for manganese for implements of warfare is so great that the ore is very valuable. Butte officials and property owners are discussing whether they shall rip up the pavement and sell the ore or keep it under their feet. Through the sale they would have ample funds to repave with some other material and enough left to make a profit for the city.—[Utica Press.]

Items of Interest.

There were two items of importance in the dispatches yesterday which were quite encouraging and which give heart of hope to every American. One was that there are now in our army in France more than half a million fighting men. That would have been a big army in Civil war days, but in a world war of such magnitude as this, it is not as large in proportion, but it is still a very considerable number. The other item was that on railway lines in France there are now 245 large type American locomotives, 514 American freight cars, and there are 700 more freight cars being assembled and 700 more are on the way. The days of hauling supplies for an army by mules has gone, and not only the motor truck, but the railway with engines and cars are indispensable for keeping the army in fighting trim.—[Ex. Tribune.]

Rumania.

When the conquering Hun walks up his victims one of two things will happen. Either they will die or they will live. If they die, God will attend to the Hun. If they live, their vengeance will be terrible.—[New York Tribune.]

The Matter of Salutes.

A newly commissioned ensign ordered a jackie to salute him fifty times because he had neglected to salute in passing. While the performance was in progress an old navy officer noticed it and inquiring the meaning the ensign explained. "Just one minute, lad," the old navy officer said when the jackie had completed the task, "the ensign is going to return the salutes now."—[Manchester Magazine.]

Drawing the Moral.

Notice that item from Northwood Narrows yesterday about the 18 hens, which, in one day, laid 17 eggs—one of which was double-yolked? Ain't it always so? Whenever one shirks on the job, another has to do double.—[Manchester Union.]

Former Gilboa Editor Dead.

The body of Charles O. Laymon, who died on May 5 at his home in Port Allegany, Pa., passed through Oneonta yesterday on its way to Gilboa, where interment will take place. Mr. Laymon was, many years ago, the editor of the Gilboa Monitor. Later he edited the Roxbury Times, but for the past 50 years had owned and edited the Port Allegany Reporter. Mr. Laymon was 60 years of age and was 22d degree Mason, a Shriner, a member of the K. O. T. M. of the Woodmen and the Odd Fellows.

The body was accompanied to Gilboa by Mrs. Laymon, Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Greene, Randall Laymon, and Mrs. Edna Laymon of Port Allegany and Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Weller and Stanley Laymon of Scranton.

Our own boys in the trenches unless we economize in breadstuffs, no matter how large the grain crop of the year may be. Students of food conservation turn therefore to the potato as the most certain and satisfactory substitute crop. Let us therefore plant potatoes for profit but most of all as a patriotic duty.

The Pastor Russell Circulars.

CARE OF SEED POTATOES.

Suggestions by the Delhi State School of Agriculture.

Good seed is an important factor in potato production. Potatoes which have grown long sprouts have lost a part of their vitality and can never produce as good a crop as potatoes which have not sprouted before planting. No one would think of pasturing corn after it was up and thus compelling the plant to grow another stalk, yet most potatoes have grown one set of sprouts before they are put in the ground. Where a cellar is cool enough to keep potatoes from sprouting, the seed need not be distributed until the time of planting. Unfortunately few cellars can be depended upon and it is necessary to remove the potatoes.

Potatoes should be taken at once from the cellar and spread out on the barn floor or some other light, dry place. If the seed will remain hard and few sprouts will grow, leaving the strength of the potato to put forth good, healthy sprouts after planting.

It has been the custom at the State Agricultural school farm to "green" the potatoes. Two weeks before planting time the seed is placed on the lawn in the sun. Short stubbed green sprouts are produced. These do not break off when planted by hand, and make a much earlier, rugged top. This plan is especially recommended for the garden where early potatoes are desired.

For Christian Scientists.

Governor Whitman on April 25th, signed a bill relating to the incorporation and government of Churches of Christ, Scientist, in the State of New York, which are branches of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass.

The purpose of this amendment to the Religious Corporations Law, which passed both houses of the legislature without opposition, is to more nearly meet the needs of Christian Science churches in certain details of organization which, being unlike other Christian churches, were not adequately provided for under the general law. The amended law is made applicable to the government of churches already organized as well as to those which may be incorporated under its provisions hereafter. There are now 107 Christian Science organizations in the state, four having been added recently.

Lieut. Ives in France.

Lieutenant Irving Ives, who graduated from the Oneonta High school and later attended Hamilton college, from which institution he enlisted and after a course of training was assigned to the 30th infantry of regulars, has, according to advices received by his family in Bainbridge, arrived in France. Lieut. Ives is well remembered by many here.

LOCAL MENTION.

Workers are wanted at the Surgical Dressings rooms this afternoon.

The Red Cross room in the Reynolds block will be open this evening from 5 to 9:30 o'clock to receive monthly subscriptions. This is to accommodate those who find it inconvenient to visit the headquarters during regular hours.

A very pleasing entertainment was given last evening in Kenney's barn, 484 Main street, by several young people of East End for the benefit of the Junior Red Cross. The program consisted of patriotic songs, dialogues and recitations and was in every way a credit to the young folks.

CLEAN-UP WEEK ENDS TODAY.

Some Flagrant Violations Reported to Health Officer Marx.

Today is the last of clean-up week. The sixth ward will be gone over carefully today and it is hoped the citizens of that part of the city will co-operate in helping make the ward attractive.

The work of the committee so far has revealed not a few flagrant violations of the health ordinances, and complaints to that effect have been turned over to Health Officer Marx.

The committee's attention has been called to the gross carelessness on the part of many tenants in the careless throwing of waste paper into the back yards which frequently find its way into our streets. There is a city ordinance against such acts and the committee has been considering the advisability of taking this subject up with the city authorities.

Notwithstanding the fact that everybody is busy and interested in war activities much time and attention has been given this past week to the serious consideration of our city's welfare. It is hoped the work thus inaugurated may continue indefinitely.

LEAVE FOR FT. SLOCUM.

Delegation of Six Recruits Off Today to Join the Colors.

This morning, at 9:40 o'clock, a squad of recruits for the provisional army leaves this city for Ft. Slocum, where they go to fill gaps in the regular army as required by a recent order from the department.

Those who are leaving are: Edward H. Gyer, Oneonta. Benjamin Rowland, Oneonta. Peter A. Stensland, Gilbertsville. Harry E. Eckert, Oneonta. Thomas McIntyre, Ithaca. Giovanni Janzolino, Oneonta. There should be a goodly delegation of citizens assembled to bid the men a Godspeed as they leave to serve the nation and mankind, although no arrangements for a public demonstration in their honor have been made.

Advertising the War Show.

John C. Stoddard, M. J. Elliott and Howard Graham of Delhi were in the city yesterday, while on a trip to Franklin Unadilla and other places advertising the big War show, which is to be staged in Delhi the coming week. See the advertisement in this issue enumerating the many attractive features of the exhibit which the residents of that village secured, coming direct from the 69th regiment army in New York city. An attractive list of speakers has been arranged, which includes Governor Charles S. Whitman on Wednesday evening.

ARREST ALLEGED DESERTER

Members of City Police Force Take Into Custody Bruno Dreger at Pleasant Valley Who Had Declared He Would Not Be Taken Alive.

Bruno Dreger was taken into custody by city officers at Pleasant Valley, some six miles from Worcester, yesterday afternoon, at the home of Mr. Woodbeck, for whom he had been working, charged with being a deserter from Company I, 26th U. S. Infantry, which sailed for France about three or four weeks ago. It is alleged that Dreger, who was a sergeant in his company, deserted from Camp Merritt shortly before the company was to embark and that he was accompanied from the camp by two others, one of whom, it is understood, has returned and surrendered himself.

The arrest was made by Officers Horton, Brown and Odell of the city force, who were accompanied to Pleasant Valley by Clerk Moore of the local exemption board. Dreger came to this section about three weeks ago and his home address could not be learned last evening. The officers returned with him at about 5 o'clock last evening, and he is in the city jail awaiting the arrival of an officer to escort him back to Camp Merritt.

Posed as a Bravado.

According to the residents of Pleasant Valley, Dreger has openly declared himself a deserter from the army and had declared that he would not be taken alive by any officer who might come after him. The residents there were loath to give any information as to his whereabouts, and some of the inhabitants of that place could and doubtless should be prosecuted for attempts to conceal and others for efforts to assist him in getting away from the officers. At the home, in fact, there appeared to be a desire to mislead the officers, but they were informed that they knew the man was in the house and that if any further inclination was shown to protect the deserter that they also would be taken into custody, they made no further effort to deceive the officers.

Officer Horton was the lucky man to locate him in one of the sleeping rooms and when the fellow inquired what authority he had for the arrest, the officers, who had been preceded into the room by his revolver in his firing hand, pointed to his revolver and the fellow covered and made no further display of bravado, but became nervous and shook like a leaf.

JUNK DEALERS FINED.

D. & H. Officials Arrest Two Charged with Buying from Boys.

D. & H. Officers Abel, Fox and Stapleton have recently caused the arrest of Ben Simons of River street and Floyd Elderkin, who were charged with purchasing junk metals from young boys. In the case of Simons it was shown that the metal purchased was D. & H. rubbish, which had been melted over so as to conceal its origin. When brought before Judge Shove, Simons pleaded guilty, although insisting that he has endeavored to comply with the law and that the purchases complained of were made by other members of his family in his absence. He protests that he has always endeavored to be law abiding and has repeatedly refused himself to buy of boys or where he had reason to believe that the material was improperly secured. He paid a substantial fine.

The same officers also secured evidence against Elderkin upon the same charge and he, it is believed, also purchased material taken from the D. & H. company. He was arraigned before Judge Shove and he also paid a fine, $25 being his contribution to the public funds.

Belknap a Former Resident.

One of the speakers at the Suffrage convention on Wednesday was Mrs. William Belknap of New York city. She motored to the city from New York and was accompanied by her husband, who proved to be William M. Belknap, who formerly resided here and who when a young lad attended school in Unadilla. Mr. Belknap, when a resident here, was engaged in the insurance business. Before returning to New York city they went to Sidney to visit a sister of Mr. Belknap.

MOTHERS' DAY IN CHURCHES.

Special Services in Most of the Churches of the City.

In observance of Mothers' day, which, coming tomorrow, is this year brought to mean more to many young men than it has ever before, special reference will be made in the churches of the city of the day.

At both the morning and evening services at the First Baptist church, the Rev. Dr. Edson J. Farley, the pastor, will make special reference in his sermons. The evening topic will be "Mothers and Sons;" the morning will be devoted to a sermonette before communion. In accordance with custom, Dr. Farley requests that all the members of the congregation wear carnations in honor of Mother, red for the living, white for the dead.

The Sunday school of the Free Baptist church will fittingly observe the day with special exercises. Though reference will be made during the other services of the day, the Rev. Charles S. Pendleton, pastor, will not devote his sermons entirely to this subject.

Dr. J. C. Russell will make his morning sermon tomorrow at the First Presbyterian church one eulogizing mother. There will be special music by the regular choir.

An appropriate sermon will be given by the Rev. E. M. Johns at the Methodist Episcopal church in the morning. The regular services of the church will be held as usual.

The Elm Park Methodist Episcopal church will observe the day with a special sermon in the morning by the Rev. J. C. Johnson.

Reference will be made to mother and the observance of the day by the Rev. J. C. Trauger at the English Lutheran Church of the Atonement.

Official Presentation of American Red Cross Films.

The Theatre Ontario will give a presentation of the Official American Red Cross picture, The Spirit of the Red Cross, in conjunction with their regular photoplay program on Monday. This picture, taken under the direction of the Paramount corporation, depicts in graphic action the work of the Red Cross in all its branches, such as caring for the refugees, ministering to the wounded, providing resting places and refreshment for the soldiers, stirring battle scenes, life in the trenches and dugouts, trench warfare, bayonet charges and other thrilling incidents of the war are shown.

It is the desire of the local Red Cross that as many as possible of the city and vicinity R. C. members witness this presentation. The Spirit of the Red Cross, it is declared, will send you home with a glow in your heart for having done your bit, with a firm determination to do more, to make more sacrifices for the boys over there, and to do all in your power to bear the Beast of Berlin.

Matinee attendance is suggested to avoid night crowds. Matinee at 2:30 o'clock. First evening show at 7 o'clock, second at 9. Admission 15c, war tax included.

OPEN RECRUITING STATION.

Major Greene Telegraphs He Will Locate Branch at 167 Main Street.

Following an unexpected delay of two weeks, the war department will reopen the regular army recruiting station in this city today. Word to this effect was received here yesterday afternoon by telegram from Major C. T. Greene, U. S. A., in command of recruiting for the Poughkeepsie district.

The new office will be located at 167 Main street, next door to the Chamber of Commerce rooms, on the second floor. It is expected that Sergeant Hart and Corporal Jones will arrive in the city this morning with the Major to formally open the station, and that the two non-commissioned officers will remain here in charge.

Upon his arrival the Major will announce what openings there are now in the various branches of the service, and the station will commence an active campaign to get young men to enlist.

Joins the Engineers.

Jay O. Green of 4 Cliff street left the city on Thursday for Albany, where he enlisted in the United States Engineers, being sent to Fort Slocum, from which camp he will, after a short training, leave for service in France. Mrs. Green accompanied him to Albany and will go to Middletown later for an indefinite stay with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Robb.

No Wonder People Come to Oneonta.

For years past wealthy people have had to hunt their chance and use great care to loan money at five per cent, while in Oneonta, for 39 years past, people with small monthly amounts of $1 or more have been receiving six per cent, compounded twice each year, have thus accumulated several million dollars and are now fast accumulating two million more, through the safe six per cent compound interest system of the Oneonta Building and Loan association, which is protected by state laws, same as savings banks. Yet many little fellows while and complain about not having a fair chance. What a queer old world. advt 1t

A TRAGIC INTERLUDE.

Little Tots They Were: One Was Brave, the Other Feared the Storm.

They were only little tots and all alone on Broad street yesterday afternoon. One was three and the other five. The younger was crying his heart out.

Overhead the sky was growing dark. Heavy, gray clouds, quickly turning into black, cast a dismal gloom over all. With a crash, a deafening peal, the jolky blackness was pierced by a streak of lightning. The laddie cried the harder.

The rain commenced to fall. Tiny drops they were; as they became larger, the wail of the distressed laddie grew more plaintive.

The youngsters trudged onward, the older comforting throwing his arm around the younger's shoulders. And as they turned the corner and were lost to sight brother said in quiet tones:

"Don't cry. We'll soon get home all right."

And then it poured.

Sophomore Reception.

The sophomore class at the Oneonta High school gave a reception at the gymnasium last evening to the faculty and students, at which there was a good attendance and which proved most enjoyable. The gym was decorated in a green and white, the class colors, cherry boughs being used with other decorations. Music for the event was furnished by Wagon's orchestra and dancing followed the reception of the guests of the evening.

OBITUARY.

Samuel Calkins.

Samuel Calkins, whose death had already been noted in The Star, was born in Canisteo in 1852 and at the age of 21 came to Oneonta, where for the past 15 years he had been employed in the D. & H. shops. He underwent a serious surgical operation for the removal of stone from bladder at the Fox Memorial hospital on April 25. His condition remained favorable until May 2, when he suffered a relapse and at his earnest request was at his home on Grove street. On Wednesday he fell into a stupor, but rallied sufficiently to bid good by his little daughter when she departed for school in the afternoon. A little later he again became unconscious, dying at about 6 o'clock.

Mr. Calkins is survived by his wife, formerly Mary A. Gardner of this city, to whom he was married in 1894, by one daughter, Elizabeth, and a step-son, Clarence Gardner, also by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ansel Calkins, by four brothers, Burr, Willard, Barney and Grover Calkins, and one sister, Edna Calkins, all of Oneonta. He had from early manhood been a member of the Free Baptist church, and was associated with the Senior Christian Endeavor, Personal Workers, and Baraca class of that society. He was a man of upright character, a genial friend and willing helper who will be deeply missed. Many friends will sympathize with the family in its bereavement.

Prayer service will be held at the house this afternoon at 1:30 and the funeral service at the Free Baptist church at 2 p.m. Dr. Pendleton will officiate and interment will be in the Plains cemetery.

Martin Keeler Marshall.

Martin Keeler Marshall, mention of whose death, Thursday evening at 9:30 o'clock at the home of his daughter, Mr. Albert Silliman, at 405 Main street, was mentioned briefly in The Star of yesterday, was a son of the late Dr. and Mrs. Robert Marshall of South Kortright. He was born in Hobart, July 4, 1838, and his early life was passed in that township. In 1870 he married Mary Jane Gibson of South Kortright. She passed away February 1, 1905.

Mr. Marshall passed the later years of his life in Schenectady and about eight years ago he came to Oneonta and here he added many friends to those of his earlier years. He had been in failing health for a year, but his last critical illness dated only from Saturday last. He is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Russell Lacher and Mrs. Louise M. Barker, both of Bristol, Conn.; two nieces, Mrs. William Seward and Mrs. John Volmder, a sister-in-law, Mrs. George Ward, all of this city; besides his daughter, Mrs. Silliman, and little granddaughter, Esther Silliman, he being especially devoted to the latter and finding in her much comfort during his last days.

The deceased was a member of the Methodist Episcopal church of this city and he always lived a clean, exemplary life and was much respected by all who knew him. The sympathy of many friends will be extended to the family in their bereavement.

A prayer service will be held at the Silliman home Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock and a further service from the Methodist church at Schenectady at 3 o'clock with Rev. B. M. Johns officiating.

NEW COMPANY FORMED.

Officers Chosen of the Dauley Burial Crypt Corporation.

The Dauley Burial Crypt corporation has recently been incorporated at Albany with a nominal capital stock to manufacture the crypt. At a meeting of the directors held last evening at the office of Owen C. Becker the following officers were chosen: President, Bertus C. Laurent; vice president, Hon. Charles Smith; secretary, Owen C. Becker; treasurer and general manager, I. S. Dauley.

The company will supply the crypts for a limited area in this part of the state, but proposes to sell the right to manufacture them in certain territories to other concerns in all sections of the country. The crypts are protected fully by patents and those dealing with the designs are confident that they will be in demand among those who appreciate a clean, substantial and humane form of burial. One attractive feature of them is that they can be made in advance, awaiting the time of need.

MARRIAGES.

Palmer-Tamsett.

Clarence W. Palmer and Mrs. Marie M. Tamsett, both of Oneonta, were married at the Lutheran parsonage yesterday by Rev. J. C. Trauger. The newlyweds will make their home in this city.

Mrs. Daniel Rose Surprised.

About forty friends and neighbors of Mrs. Daniel Rose made her a birthday surprise at her home on Lower Chestnut street Wednesday evening. The evening was most enjoyably passed with cards, music and social intercourse. Before departing the guests presented their hostess with several gifts, among which was a fine Kodak.

REAL DOGS OF WAR

People often talk of the "dogs of war," but the dogs they think of are far different from these real war dogs in the trenches. The releasing of these dogs is not the sign of conflict, but of succor for those who have fallen. Dogs are used extensively to aid the men of the medical corps find the wounded. Often they act independently in bringing aid to the hurt until they can be carried back to their own lines. As everywhere else in the world the dog has proved in the trenches that he is man's best friend. This photograph shows the dogs in a portion of trench on the Marne front. The Poilus are holding them in leash until they get the opportunity for searching the wastes of No Man's Land for the wounded and the dying.

WOUNDED BRITON HIDES TWO MONTHS BEHIND HUN LINES, THEN ESCAPES

High Shattered He Takes Refuge in Shell Hole and Enemy Believes Him Dead—He Crawls Across Trench and No Man's Land to Eng. Position—Many Stories of Brave Deeds on Battle Front in France.

What is regarded as one of the most astounding stories of the war is told by Private J. Taylor, of the London regiment, who has received a distinguished conduct medal. Private Taylor's own story, as told in the London Express, is as follows:

"It was during one of the attacks on part of the Hindenburg line on June 16 last year," he said, "We had gone over the top with the top companies together, following up a successful attack made in the same direction on the previous day. This time we were met by a terrific enemy fire, and our fellows were dropping like ninetails. I was a stretcher bearer, and I was trying to patch up one of our men who was down, when I was knocked out myself by the bullet which fractured my thigh.

Behind Enemy's Trench.

"After that I remembered nothing for some hours. It may have been a day or it may have been two when I recovered consciousness, with a parching thirst and a great sense of weariness and pain.

"I discovered afterward that we must have passed beyond our objective, and we were therefore behind the enemy's trench and support trench at this point. His front trench had been taken on the previous day, and these he now occupied were not backed up by others, but had open country behind them. I did not know at the time, however, that I was behind the enemy's line at all. I managed to crawl into a large shell hole near at hand, and lay there another day and night.

"Then a comrade, a man named Peters, joined me. He also had been wounded, but could move more freely. He had found shelter in another hole near by.

"We could tell the position of our own trenches fairly accurately by watching the fire of the trench mortars, which seemed about a thousand yards away. I was in too much pain and too weak to move. We lay together all day in the hole expecting every minute almost to be hit, and at night Peters crept out and foraged among the dead for scraps of bully beef and 'iron rations' and water from their bottles. After a few days, mercifully it began to rain, and by spreading our caps and a sheet we collected drops of muddy water, which just kept us alive.

Lived in Hiding for Five Weeks.

"This sort of existence lasted for about five weeks. Then one night Peters went out and did not return. I have learned since that he was taken prisoner.

"It was the following night that the Germans, evidently rendered suspicious by the capture of Peters, came out—I was lying in the hole where I was 'ying. I lay perfectly still. One of them lifted my leg, luckily not the one that was broken, or I should probably have cried out. They seemed satisfied and went away.

"I was now left without help in getting food or drink. During the next fortnight I eked out the small remains of bully beef; then for three days I had nothing. It was then, feeling that nothing worse could happen to me than that I resolved to crawl toward our own lines.

"It was an inkly black night when I started. I had gone some distance when unexpectedly I came on the German trench. I could have put out my hand and touched the men. The trench, a deep, narrow one, was lighted, and it would have been impossible for me with my broken leg to have climbed out of it again, even had I not been seen and seized. I managed to crawl a little distance along to a quiet point, and then, summoning up all the strength I could, flung myself across. The Boches neither saw nor heard.

Reaches British Advance Position.

"The next thing I knew I was in their wire, and how I scrambled through I do not know. I was a mass of cuts and blood and rags when it was over. I crawled on across No Man's Land, and presently was against more wire. It did not occur to me at the time that it was British wire, and I was dead beat. Just then a Very light shot up beside me, and in its flash I saw an unmistakable British face the other side of the wire. I shouted 'Don't shoot; I'm a Tommy.' A sergeant called out to know who I was; then three of them lifted me over the wire.

"I must have been a sight; no clothes, started almost to the bone, bearded, filthy; but the men were amazed to see me at all. They were an advanced machine gun post, and had been watching me crawl toward them, ready to pick me off at the right moment.

"They told me it was a dark night, I should remember, and from that I learned that it was August. I had lost all count of the days."

Private Taylor is a single man, about twenty-five, and before the war worked in a factory in London. He was seven times rejected for the army owing to the fact that he is blind in the right eye, but as he was otherwise fit he succeeded at last in evading the sight test by a feat of memory and has developed almost into a marksman, firing from his left shoulder. Although he is still obliged to use crutches, he expects to recover the use of both limbs.

Sergeant Captures Fifteen Men.

So many stories of brave deeds come from the battle fronts that it is difficult for the staffs to select the heroes most entitled to military honors. A New York Herald correspondent has come through a record of the most recent awards and chose the following as worthy of special newspaper mention:

Sergeant A. W. Bennett, of East Surrey, led the first wave of an attacking party with great gallantry and dash to the first objective, capturing fifteen of the enemy and killing many more. He then took command of the party and led them to their second objective, where he killed an officer and several men. During the withdrawal of the attacking party he showed a fine example to his men, and withdrew them as if on parade, although subjected to severe rifle fire.

Private J. W. Barker, Royal Scots Fusiliers—A bomber was shot close to him, and two of the bombs in his pouch were ignited. Barker pulled out the man's pouch and threw both bombs away, when they immediately exploded. He was dressing the wounded man at the time, and his action saved many of his comrades.

Stand on Live Grenade.

Corp. T. W. Allison, Northumberland Fusiliers—When his officer was severely wounded and lying under fire he went back and sheltered him with his body at great personal risk until it was possible to move him to a place of safety. No praise can be too great for this splendid act of devotion.

Private F. Nowell, Royal Scots—He was preparing to fire a rifle grenade when an enemy shell burst, knocked the rifle out of his hand and caused the grenade to fall out. Calling to the men near to get clear, he put his foot on the grenade which exploded and blew off his foot. By this act he saved the lives of an officer and five men.

Private T. H. Seel, Northumberland regiment—While carrying a message from brigade headquarters to a forward station was badly wounded in the head and both legs by a shell within 500 yards of his destination. He crawled the rest of the way and delivered the dispatches.

Private C. F. Pagnoe, Manchester regiment—Accompanied by another soldier he went 500 yards to a detached post to bring in a wounded man. They dressed the wounds and carried the man 700 yards across the open in broad daylight, in spite of rifle fire, machine gun fire from an airplane and the ground, and sniping, as well as heavy shell fire during the concluding 100 yards of their journey.

Aviator Saves Men in Boat.

Pioneer W. T. Smith Royal Flying corps—As gunner in an airplane he shot down an enemy machine, but his own pilot was then wounded and fell forward insensible on the control lever. Smith climbed forward along the plane, pulled the pilot off the lever, and got the machine under control. The pilot partly recovered and Smith remained standing on the side of the body of the machine shouting words of encouragement to him. The machine was eventually landed without much damage.

Agents of the British and Foreign Sailors' society tell a thrilling story of a French alman's quick and heroic action in saving life. Several British sailors were in an exhausted condition in an open boat, having been on a torpedoed steamship, when a French flyer, coming from nowhere apparently, swooped down close to him and dropped a life belt. On it was a slip of paper with this message:

"Cheer up, lads. I'm going for help."

He vanished in a jiffy. Five hours later a ship he had summoned arrived and rescued the drifting men who could have survived but a few hours longer. The name of the French aviator was never learned.

A Busy Line.

"Central, how much longer must I wait to get 4476 Juniper?"

"How long have you been waiting?"

"About ten minutes."

"Judging from the kind of conversation I heard the last time I listened in, there's an engagement ring at 4476 Juniper that is about to be returned. You may have to wait an hour."

Unbeautified.

"Do you think that rhyme beautifies a thought?"

"Not always," replied Mr. Penwidge. "The prospect is not rendered more alluring by the fact that some of the days to come are to be meatless, whereas, sweetest and possibly heartless."

NOW

By George W. Cable of The Vigilantes.

The thought that I cannot put away now is that whatever I might save now and fail to save now may be a hundred times the worst mistake I shall ever have committed though I have, like most Americans, many a past wasteful habit to regret.

It will be far the worst because now to save now is to throw away the cooperation of millions of others because not to save now will tend to prolong the war; because not to save now will multiply the war's privations, lengthen its death-roll, and the vast procession of its maimed men and will make saving more difficult and less effective by and by when we shall be compelled to save through cruel conditions from which saving now might have saved us.

Prince of Story Tellers Would Be Interested in This Wonderful Tale of Adventure.

One of the big ocean liners was several days out from New York on a trip across the Atlantic. It was dinner time, and those at the table fell to telling stories about their experiences at sea. Finally it was the turn of a person who had previously been boasting of his prowess. He told this "yarn" says the Youth's Companion.

"It happened a number of years ago," said he, "on my fifteenth trip across the ocean, when we ran short of some provisions, particularly eggs, milk, fruit and fresh meat. We were very fortunate to have on board a resourceful fellow named Brand, who pulled us out of the difficulty in good shape. First he went to the hatchway for eggs, but as they were a little too old to eat, they were used for cooking, and he requested the captain to have the ship lay to. This operation was repeated until we had eggs enough to go round.

"Then, at Brand's suggestion, the captain fired a ship's rocket into the Milky Way, and all we had to do was to hold buckets and catch the milk as it poured out of the hole made by the rocket. For a fruit supply we let down buckets over the side of the ship and picked up enough ocean currants to last for a week. The next day we had foul weather, which provided us with plenty of ducks and chickens. Some of these we ate and others we kept to replenish our egg supply."

"I was on that very trip," spoke up a wag at the end of the table. "It was the steamer Baltic, in October, 1908. New York to Liverpool. We also had on board a fair-sized goose, which was overlooked in some way. I'm sure they never ate the bird, but I've wondered, all these years until today whatever became of it."

Color News and Notes.

If you would be considered modish, subdue your favorite reds and greens, advises a fashion authority. Not to the point of fadedness, however; far from it! Simply soften them into bewilderingly beautiful shades. Soft gray-blue lavenders, ashes of roses, that old-time favorite, vistarita, and silver grays and helen grays; of these are the color cards of fashion. If you desire a spice, add a dash of rosy orange or peacock blue, but the smartest costumes are usually of one tone, with the exception perhaps of the lining, which may be as gorgeous as you please. Wool embroideries and stitchings are used with effect either in the same shade as the costume or in contrasting colors. The Chinese, Japanese and East Indian influence is plainly felt in the newest designs and colorings. Sometimes they are fairly riots of colors, almost breath-taking in their beauty.

Savage Revenge.

"Do you, too, want to can the Kaiser?"

"Yes, if there is any bottling process about it."

Naturally.

"The man we met yesterday looked very queer when I asked him if he were interested in the shut-in movement."

"No wonder. He's just out of jail."

A THOUGHT FOR THE DAY

Your State Food Commission Asks You to Read This, Too.

Reiterating its policy encouraging the free use of perishable foods, your Food Administration and your State Food Commission ask for the liberal use of eggs and poultry by the public during the period of greatest production in order that conservation of staple foods needed for export may be increased. The prime necessity for saving wheat comes at a time when the taste of the American people normally turns to fresh vegetables, eggs and dairy products, which are most plentiful during the spring and early summer.

Free consumption of these perishables will have the following beneficial effect on the food situation: Their liberal use will (1) help to save wheat without reducing the nutritive value of the diet, and (2) save transportation, because such foods are in large measure produced locally. Beginning May 1, the ban on marketing live or freshly killed hens and pullets is lifted and a liberal movement of poultry stocks from farm to market is anticipated in order to provide housing space for the 1918 hatchings. Close culling of flocks in localities where feed is scarce will still further increase the marketing of farm poultry. During May and June especially the liberal consumption of poultry is especially desired.

As a part of its effort to handle the bountiful spring egg and poultry crop, the Food Administration urges shippers of eggs to load refrigerator cars to the maximum consistent with safe carriage. The carload minimum is placed at 24,000 pounds. Large production of perishables will create a strong demand for refrigerator cars, which are not plentiful enough to permit any trade to indulge in their extravagant use.

Colors for Lingerie Blouses.

The colors that promise to be popular in lingerie blouses for spring and summer are coral, Pekin blue and tan. The last named shade is especially popular both in linen and in sheer fabrics, one of the daintiest blouses recently seen being in tan swiss dotted in white and finished with white linen collar and cuffs.

GOODRICH TESTED TIRES

At the City of Goodrich, they have officially announced the grand mileage of Goodrich's nation-wide Test Car work of 1917:

1,044,686 linear miles.
4,178,744 tire miles.

Those figures indite the Emancipation Act of motorists, freeing them from tire mishaps and amputated mileage.

Compressed in them is the story of the famous Six Fleets, and how they hurried Goodrich Tires the length and breadth of our nation, over city pavement and country road, ploughing them through sand and mud; mauling them against rock and gravel.

Mathematics has no favorites. That multiplied mileage of 4,178,744 miles coldly, calculatingly, puts the seal of multiplied proof on Goodrich Tires, and stamps them "Tested." In that searching test, no slightest defect, no hidden short-coming could escape the sight of the Goodrich experts.

SILVERTOWN CORDS, and BLACK SAFETY TREADS, under light and heavy cars, defied the rough going of roads wherever the Test Car Fleets rushed them.

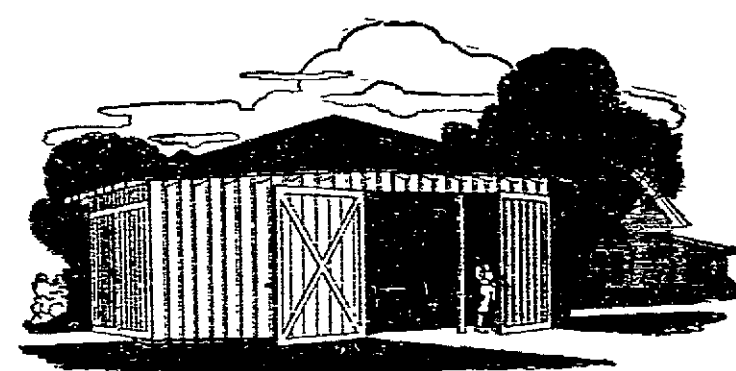

The spiral-wrapped, cable-cord tire body, and Goodrich's tough black tread rubber fought the hard fight and conquered.

Implement Sheds Will Help Win the War

IN TIMES like these we must make no further demand upon steel than are absolutely necessary. Next to food the Allied Nations need every ounce of steel this country can produce.

Besides we must conserve our time. Time spent in repairing rusted and neglected machinery is waste—and waste must be stopped.

Every implement shed built helps win the war because it doubles the life of your farm machinery—it reduces its cost per year to you—it makes your machinery run more easily—it saves money and valuable time in repairs.

Now is the time to prepare for the busy season ahead. Put your machinery in working order and then build a shed.

WHITE PINE for the outside makes your building permanent and economical because it does not warp, twist, split or rot even after years of exposure. And it takes less time to work it.

Practical working plans, specifications and bill of material for any type of farm building may be had on request of us together with our estimate of the cost.

While learning operations we pay you $16 per hour plus 19 per cent bonus on all wages for steady attendance computed in weekly periods. After learning the work, which takes from one to six weeks, you are able to earn from $3 to $5 per day and better.

Machinists, pipefitters, electricians, pattern makers, sheet metal workers and carpenters. Highest wages in this section of the country. Government work. No labor troubles. Eight hours and 10 per cent bonus for steady attendance.

We refund railroad fare of $10.00 and less in 30 days and $20 and less in 60 days. We have a Housing Department which will assist you in securing houses and rooms at lowest rates.

We also need a large number of girls, ages 21 to 35, for steady, profitable factory employment.

Applicants must pass a satisfactory physical examination. Apply in person, or communicate with Factory Employment Office.

Our Potato Column

Article No. 3.
SPRAY POTATOES EARLY.

First Danger Period Comes When the Vines Are Six Inches High.

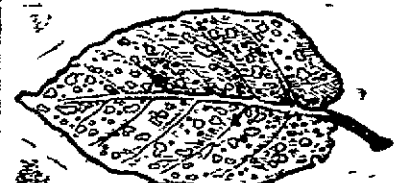

When potato vines break through the ground and reach a height of five or six inches the flea beetles appear by the millions. They riddle the leaves, "shoot them full of holes," and so weaken the plants that they fall an easy victim to early blight. The beetle can be controlled and at the same operation early blight can be prevented. Early spraying, however, is necessary, for spraying is a preventive rather than a cure.

It is difficult to poison the flea beetle, but for some reason or other he shuns the vines which have been sprayed, and becomes so discouraged that little or no damage is done. Perhaps he is starved out, but be this as it may, a combined spray, containing some poison for those of the flea beetles that stay, and a fungicide to guard against the blight gives magnificent results.

The best fungicide for the purpose is bordeaux mixture, either commercial or home prepared. As the spores of the blight strike the leaf they are killed by the copper in the spray covering, and as long as the vines are covered the blight cannot gain headway.

Perhaps you do not know the early blight, but the chances are that you have seen it and thought it was extra early ripening.

This blight usually comes shortly after the potato is set, and when the growing tubers cause a great strain on the plant. Small brown spots appear on the leaf; these later run together, the whole leaf turns yellow or brown, and the plant dies. The crop is cut from 10 to 25 per cent, and the result is a harvest of small, unripe, poor quality potatoes.

Kill two birds with one stone—spray so as to do away with the flea beetle, and prevent blight at the same time. To be effective, however, this treatment must begin when the vines are only six inches high and be repeated from three to six times during the growing season. This will not only "get" the flea beetle and the early blight, but will prevent that most destructive of diseases, the late blight or rot of the potato.

Almost every large farm in Germany has its alcohol distillery under government supervision and quite a portion of the crop is turned into denatured alcohol, which is used instead of gasoline, kerosene, etc., for gas engines and other industrial purposes. There is no odor in alcohol like gasoline; it is not an explosive, and the same bulk will go considerably farther than gasoline. A German farmer would think it as strange to buy gasoline for his power engine or automobile as one of our farmers would to buy milk. Bulletin Wisconsin Potato Growers' Association.

SAVE THE LABOR IN GROWING POTATOES.

There are but two ways of saving human labor in growing potatoes: one is to use more horses per plow, two-row cultivators instead of one-row cultivators, and the like; the other is to make labor produce more bushels per hour, and in this way reduce the labor cost per bushel.

In certain New York counties some five years ago it was found that it took about 65 hours of human labor to grow an acre of potatoes, as follows:

Man Hours Per Acre.

Plowing	6.4
Fitting	5.5
Planting	12.4
Cultivating	13.8
Harvesting and hauling	27.5

The average yield of the farms studied was about 103 bushels per acre, so that every hour a man put in in raising potatoes brought back a shade more than one and one-half bushels of potatoes.

This production per hour can be increased in several ways. Fertilizer can be used to increase the yields. It will do this without a particle of extra labor until it comes to harvesting. Even then it takes little more time to pick up a 200-bushel crop than to harvest a crop producing only 100 bushels per acre.

A poison spray may be used to kill the Colorado beetle. This adds but slightly to the labor cost of growing the crop, but very greatly to the size of the crop.

Instead of the poison spray a complete spray or combined insecticide and fungicide may be used to protect the crop against bugs, beetles and blights, and to insure the potato grower against the loss of the time and the money which he puts into the crop.

Finally, as fully as important as any of the foregoing, the grower may make use of better bred seed which will, with a given amount of labor, produce more potatoes by far than the mongrel stock so often planted.

Ask your grocer for a cheese box and then varnish it to bring out the grain. Also varnish the legs. The three legs can be made of most anything you think suitable, such as molding or laths which have been smoothed. They are fastened on with thin wire nails so as not to split the box. The top of the table is made of the lid of the box "deep side up" and lined with crotone, as is the inside of the bottom basket also. Cut the crotone the size of the bottoms and then the side lining should be gathered on this, leaving a heading above the edges.

It may be used as a mending basket, the lower box holding stockings and such articles that need mending and the upper shallow box scissors, thread, thimble and such things. A small cushion can be made and hung on the side for needles and pins.

The legs of the basket should be made such a length as will make it most convenient for the user.

KEEP OLD GLORY WAVING

Weekly Review of What Your Food Administration and Your State Food Commission Are Doing to Help You Win This War.

By AUGUSTIN McNALLY
Director of Publicity N. Y. State Food Commission and Federal Food Board

ON OUR SECOND WAR-YEAR.

At noon on Saturday, April 6, employees of the State Food Commission and the Federal Food Board assembled in the auditorium of the New York City headquarters for a thanksgiving celebration in honor of the first anniversary of our entrance into the world-war. They did so at the request of their chief, Mr. Mitchell. The important feature of that solemn assemblage was the message sent by Mr. Herbert Hoover, United States food administrator. That message, the State Food Commission believes, should be read by every man and woman in this state. It applies to all of us; it is an appeal for a larger self-denial during this, the second war-year. Read it, Americans, and resolve to do still more and more for this dear land of yours:

ON THE FIRST ANNIVERSARY OF OUR ENTERING INTO THE WORLD-WAR WE ARE CONFRONTED WITH THE GREATEST SITUATION THAT HAS YET CALLED THE BEST WE HAVE TO GIVE IN SACRIFICE AND IN ZEAL. IN THE YEAR THAT HAS JUST PASSED WE HAVE BEEN CONFRONTED BY MANY DIFFICULTIES AND HAVE LISTENED TO MANY APPEALS. MANY OF THE DIFFICULTIES HAVE BEEN OVERCOME AND MOST OF THE APPEALS HAVE MET WITH A WILLING RESPONSE. BUT THE YEAR THAT IS TO COME PROMISES TO BRING EVEN GREATER DEMANDS AND TO LOAD EVEN HEAVIER BURDENS UPON OUR SHOULDERS. THE PRESENT SITUATION IN EUROPE REQUIRES THAT WE GIVE EVERY COMFORT AND ASSISTANCE TO THE ALLIES. WHATEVER THE RESULT OF THE RENEWED GERMAN ONSLAUGHT MAY BE, WE CANNOT HOPE THAT EUROPE'S PLEA FOR ADDITIONAL FOOD SUPPLY WILL BECOME LESS. I WISH TO EXPRESS TO THE LOYAL MEN AND WOMEN, WHO HAVE WORKED ON AND WITH THE NEW YORK FEDERAL FOOD BOARD AND THE NEW YORK STATE FOOD COMMISSION, MY DEEP AND HEARTFELT APPRECIATION AND TO ASSURE THEM THAT I RECOGNIZE HOW DIFFICULT HAS BEEN THE PROBLEM THEY HAVE SO SUCCESSFULLY MET. IN EXPRESSING MY GRATITUDE FOR THE SERVICE THEY HAVE RENDERED THE NATION AND THE ALLIES, I WISH TO CALL UPON THEM FOR EVEN GREATER ZEAL IN THE YEAR THAT IS TO COME. IN ASKING IT I AM CONFIDENT IT WILL BE GRANTED AND THAT THEY WILL FIND NO SACRIFICE TOO GREAT IN THEIR EFFORT TO MEET THE INCREASED INTENSITY AND GRAVITY OF THE WORLD FOOD SITUATION.

(Signed) HERBERT HOOVER.

I take this occasion to acknowledge the capacity with which the President of the State Food Commission meets the performance of his public duties, and I am pleased more than I can say with the result. SENATOR BROWN.

Thank you, Senator. Now come to New York City headquarters and see how earnestly the State Food Commission and the Federal Board are trying to do those things for which they were created.

Electricity on Submarines.

All submarines are operated by electricity, as obviously they could not be operated by steam, when submerged. In addition to its use for propulsion, electricity is utilized on submarines for lighting, for fans, for wireless communications, and for cooking all meals for the crew.

California's Good Roads.

The state of California has voted $15,000,000 to be spent in perfecting the state highway system and not a single county failed to give the empowering measure a majority.

GRANT SIX $1095

A Car You Will Like To Use

THE GRANT SIX is the kind of car that you will use to the utmost because it costs you less to own and operate than almost any other car you can buy.

It is a car of maximum usefulness also because it is mechanically reliable and as near trouble-proof as any motor car that is built.

Finally you will use your GRANT SIX more than you would most other cars because of its comfort, which makes it possible to ride for hours without fatigue.

The new GRANT SIX is unusually beautiful in lines and finish. Its long wheelbase and the graceful sweep of the fenders, the long high hood, the wide doors, the rakish windshield and the neat top, all add to the appearance of length and make the GRANT SIX look even larger and longer than it is.

Its overhead-valve engine is a marvel of quiet, smooth, flexible power. The 46-inch cantilever rear spring and the double-decked seat cushion springs make the roughest road smooth. The splendid cooling, oiling and electrical systems never fail.

Yet this fine car costs only $1095, f. o. b. Cleveland
